the Advocates Act, 1961—each of whom is bound by statutory confidentiality obligations and by the terms of this Engagement. No such professional may disclose any Client Data to any third party without the Client's prior written consent.

The Client, in turn, undertakes to protect any proprietary or confidential information provided by the Consultant—using at least the same degree of care it applies to its own confidential information—and to refrain from disclosing such information except as compelled by law or with the Consultant's express written consent

The Consultant shall indemnify, defend, and hold harmless the Client, its affiliates, directors, officers, employees, and agents from and against any and all losses, damages, claims, demands, liabilities, costs, penalties, interest, fines, or expenses (including reasonable legal fees) arising out of or in connection with:

a) any unauthorized access, use, disclosure, or misappropriation of Confidential Information;

b) any breach of the confidentiality obligations set forth in this Agreement;

c) any negligent, reckless, or intentional act or omission by the Consultant or its representatives leading to such breach.

This indemnity shall survive termination of the Agreement and remain valid for a period of three (3) years thereafter or until the confidential nature of the information ceases, whichever is later. The Client shall be entitled to claim actual damages, loss of reputation, opportunity costs, and consequential damages, subject to applicable law.
